Hansen receives LTC grant

The American Library Association (ALA) has announced the recipients of nearly $1 million in funding for small and rural libraries, the second grant distribution as part of the association's Libraries Transforming Communities: Focus on Small and Rural Libraries initiative.

The funding will enable libraries to lead community engagement efforts in more than 300 small and rural communities. on topics like mental health or public land use,

The Hansen Community Library will partner with the City of Hansen and Kimberly-Hansen Police Department to hold a conversation about underage tobacco and alcohol usage. Watch for more information about this conversation.

"Through community engagement, libraries are continuing their important work on literacy and access, while also working to fill gaps in other areas that may not have fallen to libraries in the past," said ALA President Julius C. Jefferson. "We are excited to provide the resources for hundreds of libraries to take on new challenges in their communities and look forward to seeing the great things they accomplish."

The 317 funded proposals – public, academic, school/K-12, special and tribal libraries – represent 45 U.S. states.

Eligibility was limited to communities with populations less than 25,000 in accordance with Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS) definitions.

Hansen will use some of its funding to sponsor youth programs.
